To: The Principal

As you may have gathered from media reports, we have established a website on Fiji's indenture system. The site address is: <http://www.fijigirmit.org>

This site contains a lot of very interesting materials on the Giritmit system, including essays, articles, pictures, records, etc. The site is probably the only of its kind in the world, where one would find a comprehensive set of materials on the indenture system.

We believe that this site would be very useful to your students and staff.

If you have access to internet, we encourage you to visit the site, and to allow your students access to it.

If, however, you do not have access to internet facilities, but have a computer with CD rom, we can send you a CD with the necessary information on it. Please note that we will be continuously updating the site. Consequently this option – of a CD – is necessarily one which will contain materials as at the date the CD is burnt and not any material posted to it after that date. Because of the historical importance of Giritmit to Fiji, and since this year marks the 125th anniversary of the first landing of the giritmitiya's in Fiji, we will provide the CD without any charge to your school. If you need this, please let us know by sending the completed slip at the bottom of this letter to us.
